

Subject Company: CureVac N.V.
Commission File No.: 001-39446

The following communications are being filed in connection with the proposed acquisition of CureVac N.V. by BioNTech SE.

Dear all,

Here comes the next big news: We just announced that we have entered into a definitive Purchase Agreement pursuant to which we intend to acquire all of the shares of CureVac.

This transaction marks the next key milestone in the execution of our oncology strategy which focuses on two pan-tumor programs, mRNA-based cancer immunotherapy candidates and BNT327. After announcing our partnership with Bristol Myers Squibb (BMS) last week to co-develop and co-commercialize BNT327, our latest news strengthens our position in mRNA-based cancer immunotherapies.

We see this strategic transaction as an investment in the future of cancer medicine by complementing BioNTech's capabilities and proprietary technologies in mRNA design, delivery formulations, and mRNA manufacturing. The goal is to advance the development of innovative and transformative cancer treatments and establish new standards of care for various types of cancer in the coming years.

We will provide more details in our townhall on Monday, June 16, 3 pm CET, where colleagues will also be able to raise any questions, they might have.

Key facts about the acquisition:

- Transaction expected to close in 2025.
- Following the closing of the transaction, CureVac will become a wholly owned subsidiary of BioNTech.
- We will develop an integration plan in alignment with our ongoing group-wide transformation, which we intend to finalize and implement after a successful closing of the transaction. As part of this plan, we will integrate CureVac's state-of-the-art research and manufacturing site in Tübingen.
- What this means for us and our site network will be worked out in detail in the integration planning phase. The implementation of any measures included in the integration plan can only begin after the closing of the transaction.

Many of you will play an active part in this planning process and we will keep all of you updated about relevant developments. We thank everyone who was involved in the process so far for their hard work and dedication.

Best regards,
Ugur on behalf of the management team
